Preamble

This Statistical Handbook is a comprehensive digital archive documenting the socio-economic and physical landscape of the Valikamam East Divisional Secretariat Division, Jaffna. Compiled from official data, it offers a clear overview of key indicators such as covering population, livelihoods, infrastructure, and development. Designed for students, researchers, humanitarian agencies, and other stakeholders, the handbook presents information in a structured, reader-friendly format to support informed decision-making.

Valikamam East is home to 77,448 residents across 31 Grama Niladhari divisions. Predominantly Tamil and Hindu, the region has a rich cultural and religious heritage. Agriculture, especially paddy and field crops, forms the backbone of its economy. This handbook examines the agricultural sector in detail, including production targets, crop extents, and support systems for farmers.

Beyond agriculture, the division thrives on strong foundations in education, health, and governance. The handbook maps an extensive network of schools from primary to collegiate levels serving thousands of students, alongside a reliable healthcare system of hospitals and medical units. It also outlines critical infrastructure such as roads, banks, cooperative societies, and places of worship. Information on electricity, transport, housing, and banking completes a full picture of daily life and the systems that sustain it.

The data reflects a strong commitment to development and resilience. The handbook documents numerous government and NGO projects in housing, livelihood support, and infrastructure. It highlights the work of rural development societies, women's groups, and farmers' organizations that actively shape the future. It also records disaster management, social welfare, and rehabilitation efforts, demonstrating the community's collective resolve to build a stronger, united society.

In essence, this Statistical Handbook is more than a collection of numbers, it is a tribute to the spirit of Valikamam East, Kopay and a vital tool for its future. By making this information widely available, we promote transparency, encourage evidence-based planning, and strengthen the bond between the people and their government. We trust these insights will prove invaluable to all committed to the division's growth and well-being.
